Cboe Europe Introduces Bank Code Viewer and Account Admin Attestation Tools in the EU Customer Web Portal

Applicable Cboe Exchanges: BXE, CXE, DXE, TRF, SIS

Overview

Cboe Europe is introducing two new tools in the EU Customer Web Portal. The Bank Code Viewer, available now, allows Users to view their firm's Bank Codes (Trading Identifiers). The Account Admin Attestation tool allows Account Admins to confirm the list of Account Admins for their firm. The first Account Admin Attestation period will begin at the beginning of January 2027.

Technical Details

Bank Code Viewer

The Bank Code Viewer is available now in both Certification and Production EU Customer Web Portals. Account Admins can assign access via the User Management tool. Privileged users can view their Bank Codes for each of BXE, CXE and DXE. For each Bank Code the tool shows:

- Description
- Trading BIC
- ETR Matching enablement status
- RTS 22 Transaction Reporting methodology

The list can be downloaded in csv format.

Account Admin Attestation

Account Admins will be required to attest twice a year that their firm's Account Admins are correct. The first attestation period will begin at the beginning of January 2027, and future periods will begin on 1 January and 1 July.

- Account Admins at each firm will receive an automated email containing a link to the tool. The link is also available from the User Management tool.
- Account Admins can remove Account Admin access from any user who should no longer hold it, then confirm the list. Only one Account Admin needs to attest on behalf of the firm.
- Firms have four weeks to attest and reminder emails are sent weekly until an attestation is made. If no attestation is made by the deadline, Account Admin privileges are removed from applicable users. Membership Services can reinstate them on request.
