

Retail Order Priority Launches on Cboe EDGX Exchange

Today, Friday, November 1, Cboe launched its new Retail Priority program on the Cboe EDGX Exchange.

Designed to enhance execution quality for individual investors who trade U.S. equities, the mechanism introduces order book priority for orders submitted on behalf of retail investors, thereby increasing the probability of execution for their orders.

Effective immediately, a Retail Member Organization (RMO) may begin designating their orders for retail priority. If you wish to become an RMO, submit a completed EDGX Retail Member Organization Application to Membership Services at MembershipServices@cboe.com.

See the press release for more information, or refer to the Tradedesk Update for technical details.
