KANSAS CITY-BASED EXCHANGE LOOKS TO FURTHER BOOST MARKET SHARE

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – November 6 – BATS Holdings, an innovative global financial markets technology company, announces it has successfully completed the transition to operate as a national securities exchange. As of today, all US-listed securities are now available for trading on BATS Exchange, one of the fastest growing, top-tier equity markets in the US.

“We’re pleased that the transition has gone well and are excited to participate in our nation’s securities industry directly as an exchange,” BATS CEO Joe Ratterman said. “As we continue to grow and develop our business, as well as our overall market share, BATS members will benefit from our mission of Making Markets Better.”

In November 2007, after operating as an ECN for less than two years, the firm filed for exchange status with the SEC. Approval was received to operate as an exchange in August 2008.

The firm’s European division, BATS Europe, opened its new market October 31st as a multilateral trading facility. BATS Europe (<http://www.batstrading.co.uk>) launched with active UK securities, and is expanding to include active stocks from Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, and Germany over the next month.
