

Cboe Europe Equities: Introduction of Cboe LIS Directed IOIs

Overview

Cboe UK (Cboe) is pleased to announce the launch of Directed IOIs as an extension of the Cboe LIS block trading platform. The service, which will leverage the existing LIS and BIDS Trader infrastructure, will allow Cboe Participants to submit targeted liquidity to their clients through Directed Indications of Interest (IOIs), for which they are acting as a Designated Broker. The new functionality will be available on the Cboe UK venue (LISX) from Friday 9th July in Production.

Connectivity and Onboarding

Participants

Participants will require a new LIS port to submit Directed IOIs, which can be ordered here. Additionally, please complete and return the LIS addendum. Details of the changes to the Cboe LIS FIX specification can be found here.

Manual Users via BIDS Trader

Existing manual Users that connect via their OMS/EMS and BIDS Trader should register their interest with their account coverage contact who will instruct them on how to enable this service.

Reference and Market Data

Cboe will not be making any changes to its reference data files or market data because of this new service.

Testing Opportunities

Effective immediately, the changes described are available in the Cboe LIS Certification (UAT) environment. Please contact the Trade Desk for any help with testing or configuration.

Additional Information

Please contact the Trade Desk or your Account Manager with any questions.
