

Cboe BZX Equities Exchange Capacity Fee Rule Change

On Monday, Cboe filed with the SEC a Cboe BZX Equities Exchange rule change designed to more accurately reflect the purpose and value of logical port connectivity. The rule change amends the Cboe BZX Equities fee schedule by characterizing an order entry “logical port fee” as a “match capacity fee.”

Charging for capacity ensures that we’re reflecting the nature of customers’ business needs -- firms that demand the most resources are charged appropriately, while firms that demand relatively less capacity can connect and trade on Cboe BZX Equities Exchange at a lower cost.

Multi-Class Spread Orders with a VXXB (iPath Series B S&P 500 VIX Short-Term Futures ETN) Leg

On Thursday, VXXB options became eligible for open outcry trading on Cboe Options as Multi-Class Spread Order with a VIX, VIXW, VXX or VXZ leg. Cboe Options currently lists for trading options classes VXX and VXXB, which are options on iPath S&P 500 VIX Short-Term Futures ETNs. See the Tradedesk Update for more information.
